FRANKLIN MAN SUICIDES; ILL HEALTH CAUSE

Collin Hartzell Cuts Wrists; Died Last Night, Rochelle.

Collin C. Hartzell, 35, former manager of the Mount Morris College farm and son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hartzell of Franklin Grove, died at the Lincoln hospital in Rochelle at 11 o'clock Wednesday night as a result of an attempt to end his life at his apartment at the Old People's Home in Mount Morris Tuesday evening when he slashed both wrists with a razor.

Both tendons and one artery were severed, and after emergency treatment at Mount Morris he was rushed to the Rochelle hospital where yesterday it was hoped he would survive.

Hartzell resigned his post at the College farms a few months ago because of ill health. He had spent the winter with relatives at Waterloo, Iowa.

Returning to Mt. Morris last week, Hartzell and his wife had taken temporary quarters in the Old People's home before entering on new duties here.

On Monday the husband suffered a severe heart attack, which caused a dangerous condition that caused him to attempt suicide.

Tuesday evening, while his wife was absent from the room preparing some special food that had been recommended by physicians, Hartzell slashed his wrists with a razor.

When the wife returned she found her husband in a semi-conscious condition, weakened by loss of blood. Dr. J. J. Price was summoned and after giving emergency treatment, ordered the patient rushed to the Rochelle hospital by an ambulance.

Hartzell was recognized as one of the most capable managers ever employed on the College farm. On his resignation, directors of the institution tendered him a leave of absence to recover his health but the young man refused the offer.

He had accepted a responsible position and had planned on assuming his duties next week. The sudden attack on Monday evidently caused a despondency that prompted him to the attempt to take his life.

Protection of Bass
Aim of Waltonians

Heads of committees of the Frank Walton League chapter held a well attended and very interesting meeting at the Elks club last evening and some important matters of business were discussed. One of the chief items of interest which is to be brought to the attention of the entire membership and fishermen in this locality in general, was the proper handling of bass.

At this time of the year, bass have been found quite plentiful and many have been caught. In several instances anglers have disobeyed the law which requires that no bass shall be taken until after June 15, when the spawning season is closed. Local Waltonians are requesting that fishermen cooperate by replacing all bass in the river when caught, using care in removing the from the hook in order that they may not be destroyed, and by so doing, aid in stocking Rock river and tributary streams in this locality with this particularly sought for game fish.

GOOD MEETING OF DOCTORS IN DIXON LAST EVE

Interesting Discussions
Marked Program Lee
County Medics.

The Lee County Medical Society meeting held Tuesday evening at the "Dixon Inn" was attended by fifty medical men from Illinois and Iowa, as well as a number of the nurses from the Dixon Nurse's Alumna.

After enjoying an excellent banquet and some singing, the meeting was called to order by the President Dr. C. C. Kost and Dr. Thomas G. Hall. Committees were appointed for the open air meeting and picnic which is held jointly with the Ogle County Medical Society, during the second week in July at Lowell Park.

The scientific program was very interesting. Dr. Albert H. Burr of Dixon presented several cases, including a remarkable development in one of a pair of twins and also a case of infantile paralysis in which the "Dixon" serum had been used.

The program was led by Dr. E. S. Murphy of Dixon and Dr. Karl F. Snyder of Freeport. Dr. F. M. Keefe of Clinton, Iowa, described the epidemic of infantile paralysis which occurred in Clinton in 1924 and how it was controlled by the use of the Rose-now serum furnished by the Mayo Clinic. Dr. F. W. Broderick of Sterling called attention to some symptoms, only recently ascribed to this disease. Dr. C. F. Read, alienist with the State Board of Health, reported on Dr. Rose-now's paper read before the Chicago Medical Society's meeting regarding this much dreaded disease.

Dr. J. B. Warrick of the staff of the Dixon State Hospital read a very interesting paper on the experience at that hospital with the "Dick Test" for those susceptible to scarlet fever and also the use of vaccine for immunizing those found susceptible. He quoted a number of statistics including those on the check up test to determine the efficiency of the immunizing vaccine.

Dr. Emil C. Du Val of Chicago explained the technique used in the operation work shown in the moving pictures, which completed the program.

POLICE BILL IS PASSED TODAY BY SENATE IN FIGHT

Administration Measure is Accepted in Lieu of Dunlap Bill.

Springfield, Ill., April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—After a bitter debate the Senate today passed the Barr state highway police bill, an administration substitute for the Dunlap state police bill which has been a bone of contention for three different general assemblies. The vote was 34 to 2.

Senator Barr moved to strike off the emergency clause just before the roll call thus making it necessary to get but 24 votes. The bill, however, received enough votes to have passed with the emergency measure.

Advocates of the Dunlap bill fought to the bitter end but were overwhelmed by the support which had been lined up for the Barr measure.

Ask Denen for Speech.
The House passed a resolution asking Senator Charles S. Denen to address a joint meeting of the House and Senate next Thursday, and sent to the appropriations committee a resolution by Representative Benjamin Mitchell, Chicago, for a committee of five to investigate the practice of foreign government officers which receive money from their nationals, act as their bankers and transmit money to foreign countries.

An attempt to amend the Arnold bill appropriating $1,000,000 to connect upstate hard roads through cities and villages to reimburse cities which already have made such improvements resulted in the measure being held up a week for further consideration. As written, the bill provides only for new construction.

Representative Curran, chairman of the house appropriations committee introduced four minor appropriation bills and announced that only two, the omnibus and court of claims appropriation measures remain to be introduced.

The election contest of George Kersey, for a seat from the third senatorial district was dismissed on recommendation of the elections committee.

Provides for 750 Men.
At the police bill goes to the House it provides for a state police force of 750 men, under a superintendent appointed by the Director of the Department of Public Works. Most of the military features which offended labor in the Dunlap bill, have been left out of the Barr bill. No sub police stations or barracks are provided in the bill, although they can be installed if the superintendent wishes to organize his forces in that manner. No provision is carried in the bill for the mobilization of the force at any particular point in the state. This clause was left out in order to assure labor that the state police would not be used to break strikes.

The force is to be financed under a special appropriation and will not be financed from the maintenance fund from the state highway department. No new law will be added to the Illinois code by passage of the bill as the measure merely amends the present highway patrol act and extends the powers of the patrolmen to require them to enforce other laws as well as highway laws.

In the house the measure will probably face a stiff fight, but the administration is considered strong enough to put the bill across at any time.

Frank Schulz, indicted for larceny, appeared before the court and his bonds were fixed at $750 in default of which he was remanded to jail.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE BREAKS AWAY IN GALE THIS MORN

BULLETIN
By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, April 16.—Riding northward before the winds that swept the North sea, the big British dirigible R-33 has no chance of returning to Pulham air station it was unofficially announced.

BULLETIN
London, April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The big British dirigible R-33 sister ship of the R-34 which was the first lighter than air craft to cross the Atlantic, this afternoon slowly was making her way against headwinds, toward her moorings at Pulham, Norfolk, from which she broke loose shortly before ten o'clock this morning in a heavy southwest gale.

With the wind which earlier in the day had reached the force of a full gale, gradually subsiding, the fear of serious accident lessened and it was hoped that the ship would be able to moor again late this evening.

London, April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The giant British dirigible R-33 which was recently commissioned for the first time since 1921, broke from her mooring mast at Pulham shortly before 10 o'clock this morning with 20 men aboard. The ship had fuel aboard for a two days' cruise.

The wind was blowing a gale and by 10:40 o'clock the airship was reported far out at sea. Her engines were running and she was in touch with the shore by wireless.

At 10:55 she was lost to view of those watching from the shore at Lowestoft, the heavy gale blowing from west-southwest carrying her northward over the North Sea.

In breaking away from her mast, the ship's nose was badly ripped. The gale, one of the heaviest in recent months, increased in velocity during the morning and was blowing full blast when the accident occurred.

The R-33 had been in her shed at Cardington for four years and after nearly two years of rebuilding is considered by experts virtually as good as new.

The dirigible is 640 feet long with a width of 79 feet. Her cruising speed is 45 miles an hour under ordinary conditions. She has 18 gas bags and four motors.

When news of the accident was received in London all possible machinery of rescue was put in motion. Ships plying the North Sea were quickly notified by wireless and messages sent to coast cities on the continent in the vicinity where she might drift.

The latest advices from the ship were that she was making from 20 to 25 knots an hour and had already made some progress in the direction indicated.

Senator Burton Wheeler
Goes to Trial in Mont.

Great Falls, Mont., April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, went on trial for his political life here today. He appeared in U. S. District Court to answer an indictment returned a year ago charging him with accepting a fee for prosecuting claims of a client before the Department of the Interior, after he had been elected to the Senate.

The maximum penalty for violation of the law provides that a person so convicted is forever barred from again holding public office.

Senator Wheeler is specifically accused of accepting a fee of $4,000 from Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator.

Mother Admits She Poisoned Her Children "for Love"

INDIANA MOTHER ADMITS SHE GAVE CHILDREN POISON

Mrs. Anna Cunningham
Confesses to Deaths of Three Children.

Crown Point, Ind., April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Anna Cunningham, 49-year-old widow, who has confessed poisoning three of the five members of her family who died within six years, was found apparently in a cataleptic condition in her cell today.

A physician was hastily summoned to the jail.

It was the second time since Mrs. Cunningham had been taken into custody in Chicago that she had been found in such a state. Prior to a collapse in the county hospital in Chicago, she attempted to choke herself with a bed sheet.

While a doctor was awaited, the preliminary hearing of the charge that Mrs. Cunningham murdered her son, Walter, 13, was continued indefinitely.

Crown Point, Ind., April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Anna Cunningham, 49, confessed last night that she gave poison to three of the five members of her family whose mysterious deaths within six years led to an investigation resulting in a murder charge against her.

The victims—Isabelle, 18; Charles, 19; and Walter, 13, she said she had killed because she loved them best.

She believed she was going to die, she said, and wanted to take them with her to join her father who died in 1918. For the same reason she had given poison to David, the last son, now in a critical condition in a Chicago hospital. She denied she had poisoned her husband, the first to die, or Harry, another son, in whose exhumed body coroner's chemists found arsenic. She spared Mae, 19, surviving daughter, because she disliked her, she said.

Each time she administered the arsenic in bread and butter she took a similar dose herself, and after the death of Walter, she added a teaspoonful of loline, but always recovered. Her desire "to join in Heaven" her husband, and take with her her best loved child, had prompted her to administer the death potion to Isabelle, the first victim, who died Dec. 31, 1920.

Reporter Got Confession.
The confession of the woman, who had remained unshaken under the questioning in Chicago of Prosecutors Crowe and Sharbaro, was obtained by Sheriff B. H. Strong and Miss Maureen McKernan, Chicago newspaper reporter.

During yesterday afternoon she had recovered from a state of coma into which she lapsed early Tuesday, Mrs. Cunningham talked to Miss McKernan and admitted she might have placed some arsenic in the food of David by mistake, but was stolid in her denial that she had poisoned any members of her family.

Suddenly she asked that her daughter Mae be sent for and that she be removed from her cell because of the presence there of several women prisoners. Disregarding the girl's frantic screams to remain silent she detailed her story first to Sheriff Strong and later to an official court reporter.

The girl refused to remain and listen to the account of the death of her brothers and was taken away. She also declined to offer to remain in the jail near her mother during the night and went to an adjoining hotel. Only when she was asked to sign the transcribed confession at 2:45 a. m. today did Mrs. Cunningham betray any emotion. Then she broke down and sobbed.

Isabelle carried $1,000 insurance, a confession said. Harry had $2,500. Charles $500 and Walter $250. All the insurance money had been spent, most of it in physicians and funeral bills.

A package of poison, bought for 25 cents, sufficed for all the doses, she said. Before the illness of David, Jr., Mrs. Cunningham said she sent Mae for a fifty cent box of poison which in some manner was misplaced and burned. She bought another box herself.

No Attempt at Suicide.
Mrs. Cunningham denied she had made any attempt at suicide after being brought to Chicago on Sunday for questioning. She collapsed after an inquiry by Chicago prosecutors, but recovered sufficiently to permit her being taken to the jail here, where she passed into an unconscious state on Tuesday.

Dr. W. F. Honk, deputy coroner of Lake County, present when she told her story, and she gave no indications of insanity.

Mae, the surviving daughter, came for frequent censure in her mother's confession. Mrs. Cunningham said the girl often left her alone to go to dances and frequently spent much time away from home. Once, when the mother had a fainting spell and fell into the bath tub, the girl left her alone and did not return for hours.

David, the surviving son, near death in a Chicago hospital, has not been told by relatives of his mother's confession.

She asserts that certain characteristics invariably recur in the finger prints of individual families.

MUCH OF SARGENT'S ART UNFINISHED AT TIME OF HIS DEATH

Series of Paintings in Boston Library Not Yet Completed.

Boston, April 16.—The death in London yesterday of John Singer Sargent, leaves some of the work of the great portrait and mural painter unfinished. On the last of the artist's periodical visits to this city in 1923 he began a series of paintings in the rotunda of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, but returned to England leaving completion of the work for another time.

The noted American artist has been in good health and was at work on a picture at last night. He had booked passage on a steamer sailing for the United States on Friday to complete his decorative work in the Boston library.

Sargent's work, on which he had been laboring recently and which death leaves uncompleted, is a painting of Princess Mary and her husband, Viscount Lascelles. Only Tuesday they sat for two hours for him in his studio, the exterior of which is one of the sights of the art colony in Chelsea.

In 1923 Sargent installed a series of paintings in the rotunda of Museum of Fine Arts. A series of decorations in keeping with the work in the rotunda was to have been added over the main stairway, but death has intervened.

The series of paintings in the Boston Public Library portraying the history of religion contains one composition, "The Synagogue" over which a legislative battle was waged for several months. Efforts were made to have the painting, which portrays the conflict between Judaism and Christianity removed on the ground that it cast reflections on the Jewish religion. In June 1922, the legislature passed a bill ordering the library trustees to remove the painting, but a later ruling by the supreme court caused it to remain in place.

At the height of the controversy, an attempt was made to mar the painting by throwing ink on it, but no serious damage was done.

Sargent last visited this city in 1916, when he was engaged in his work at the Widener Library at Harvard. He rarely spoke for publication and never discussed or commented on his own work, leaving it to his friends or associates to make his opinions.

Organization of Which
She Was Member to Have a Part.

The funeral of Mrs. Walter E. White, who, as announced in last evening's Telegraph, passed away Thursday morning, April 15, at 5:15 o'clock at the Dixon hospital, will be held at her late home, 806 Galena avenue, at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and at St. Paul's Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. L. W. Walter, pastor of that church officiating, and with burial at Oakwood cemetery. The services at the home will be in charge of Dixon Circle, No. 73, Ladies of the G. A. R., of which Mrs. White was a member, and the Royal Neighbors will conduct their services at the grave.

Emma J. Cummings was born at Meyersdale, Penn., May 29, 1876, and passed away at Dixon, Ill., April 15, 1925, aged 48 years, ten months and 25 days. She came to Dixon with her parents in October, 1895 and had made her home in this city since that time, with the exception of five years spent in Sterling.

She was united in marriage to Walter E. White, Sept. 6, 1900, to which union one daughter, Helen, was born. Besides her husband and daughter she is survived by her father, Isaac Cummings, who has made his home with her since the death of her mother in 1910; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Morrow of Knappton, Wash., and Mrs. Edith Rogers of Boise, Idaho; and three brothers, Edward and William Cummings of Monongahela, Penn., and Myron Cummings of Dixon.

Mrs. White became a member of the Lutheran church at Meyersdale in her childhood and remained a faithful and active believer in the faith until her passing. She was a member of the Ladies of the G. A. R., the Mystic Workers and the Royal Neighbors.

Mrs. White was intensely interested in her home, her church and the three organizations to which she belonged, and a host of friends mourn her passing and tender sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

YOUNG PRISONERS
SPEND FIRST DAY
IN SOLITARY CELLS

Rock Falls Boys Were Received at State Prison Wednesday.

Earl L. Decker, William Ewert and William Robinson of Rock Falls, yesterday afternoon started the serving of sentences of ten years each in the state penitentiary at Joliet on a statutory charge. Sheriff E. C. Risley and two deputies delivered the three youthful prisoners to the new penitentiary at Stateville, where after undergoing the initial medical examination and being furnished with the prison clothing, were taken to the solitary confinement building where they will serve the first 24 hours of their sentence.

Decker is prisoner number 9763, Ewert, 9764 and Robinson, 9765. Under the present system, the trio will remain at Stateville in the new institution for a period of ten days, during which time they will be under surveillance and observation, after which they will be taken to the old prison at Joliet and assigned to some permanent labor. Their future conduct will decide their respective prison lives.

Robinson, the youngest of the three, appeared to be the more impressed upon entering the new prison. Decker and Ewert did not flinch and smiled as they were accompanied down the long corridor to the department where they would first be photographed and then prepared to enter the solitary confinement chamber for a 24 hour period.

Officers Inspected Prison.
The Dixon officers were privileged to visit the new prison and all of its departments. More than a thousand prisoners are now housed in the Stateville penitentiary, more than 60 per cent of this number being colored convicts. But two of the large circular cell houses are now in use, a third being well toward completion, but work generally is said to be held up awaiting appropriations at Springfield.

About 1,200 convicts are still at the old prison at Joliet. After undergoing the ten day observation period at Stateville, all convicts are transferred across the river to the old prison and there assigned to some duty or put to work in one of the many factories. But one of these manufacturing departments is now fully equipped and in working order at the new penitentiary and in this a model shoe factory turns out shoes for all of the state institutions. Temporary industries accommodate a tailor shop where all the clothes for the prisoners are made. A model shoe shop provides employment for cobblers who mend shoes for the convicts.

Wonderfully Equipped.
The bakery, laundry and kitchen departments have been completed and

STEAM PLANT INTAKE TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Entirely New System at Foot of College
Ave. Planned.

Plans have been drawn and the contract will be awarded in the near future for a new $40,000 improvement to be made by the Illinois Northern Utilities company this summer, according to an announcement given out today. The improvement will be made at the company's steam generating plant at the foot of College avenue and is to be completed this summer.

The present intake system, which supplies water from Rock river to the steam propelled generators and cooling system has become outgrown in more than one way, and this is to be replaced by an entirely new system. At the present time approximately 3,750 gallons are pumped from the river per kilowatt hour and the plans for the new system will increase this to 15,000 gallons, provision being made to double this amount, should it later become necessary, with the installation of what is known as traveling screens.

To Use Much Water.
At present, under local conditions, the stationary screens are all that are required to supply the steam plant and a new system of this type is to be installed.

Approximately 16,000 gallons of water are pumped from Rock river, passing through the condensing or cooling system and returned to the river in each minute of operating time, or 960,000 gallons an hour, which is more than the supply of water used by the city of Dixon in a 24-hour day, which averages 800,000 gallons daily.

The new intake system will comprise a series of cribs, the water being pumped through heavy gratings which will strain all foreign matter, thence through the long coils of pipes into the condensers which cool the steam operated turbines. The construction will be almost entirely of reinforced concrete.

Four Units Operating.
At 3 o'clock this afternoon four units of the new hydro plant at the foot of Ottawa avenue were in operation, two of this number supplying electrical energy at the rate of 800 horse power each. The second unit has passed through the drying out and experimental stages and is now generating electricity which is being carried to the street and steam plant and thence to the high tension lines leading out of Dixon.

The third turbine has been in operation for several days and will be started tomorrow in the generation of power. The fourth unit was started late this afternoon and is being run through its trial test. By the latter part of next week it is anticipated that four of the big turbines will be operating, each developing 800 horse power of electrical energy. When completed, the five turbines will develop an average of 4,000 horse power.

Electricians this afternoon completed the assembling of the huge electric sign on the top of the new building and it was tested out. The sign will be lighted this evening for the first time.

Anniversary of Death of Lincoln Fell Yesterday

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—Seven civic organizations of Springfield united today for the first time in the observance of the anniversary of Lincoln's death, sixty years ago.

A feature of the observance was the repetition of Lincoln's farewell address at the Walsh freight depot by Harrington Wood, an attorney of approximately the same stature of Lincoln. A parade to the Lincoln home was led by the life and drum corps of the Boy Scouts and a wreath placed on the tomb of Lincoln by two men who knew him. Taps blown by a bugler ended the ceremonies.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Cleaning Furs.

To clean the fur on coats or neck—pieces lay the collar on a newspaper and sprinkle full of coarse cornmeal. Let it line for several hours, then shake out the meal.

Save Clothesline.
Do not leave your clothesline out from week to week. A clothes reel that you can take in after each drying is better.

Never Boil Wool.

Never soak or boil wool of any kind. Always squeeze the water out of woolen goods—never wring them.

To Preserve Lace.

If lace is very fine and valuable, it is better to sew it on to a thin piece of muslin or cheesecloth before washing it. This preserves the shape and in wear and tear on the lace.

Wash Hose First.

It is always advisable to wash the feet of new stockings before the first wearing, as the dressing added to the silk frequently lessens the wearing quality.

Drying Blankets.

In drying blankets, change the position occasionally and pull the edges straight. Otherwise you will have an uneven edge.

Removing Tea Stain.

Will Not Leave Daddy for a Husband

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, April 16.—Miss Ellen Mackay, society debutante, says she has not met the man for whom she would leave her father.

Returning yesterday from Europe on the steamship Olympic, she proudly linked arms with her dad, Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Cable & Commercial Company, and when asked about a report that she was engaged to Irving Berlin, composer and popular song writer, denied the rumor with the assertion that it was natural for people to expect a girl to marry soon after she had made her debut.

"I am not engaged to any one," she said.

"The truth of the matter is that if I were to marry I would surrender the companionship I have with my father. If I married I would leave Dad alone, and I cannot bear to think of parting with him. I have not met the young man I would marry and give up my father."

A reporter who asked if Miss Mackay might marry a poor man some day, demurred when she asked if he intended his question as a proposal.

Start in Phaeton Finish in Automobile

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, April 16.—A honeymoon that started in a phaeton, half a century old was being continued today in an automobile today by James Stillman Rockefeller and his bride, the former Nancy Carnegie.

Leaving the scene of the ceremony at Dungeness, Cumberland Island, Georgia, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie II, yesterday afternoon, the newlyweds were transported in a beribboned phaeton to a yacht that took them to Fernandina, Ga., where an automobile awaited them. They started north and their trip will extend abroad.

Reporters and photographers were barred from the island. A dispatch to the New York Tribune relates that at Fernandina Henry S. Morgan and W. F. Winn, a photographer, came to grips through Winn's efforts to get pictures as the guests were leaving the yacht. One of Winn's hand was injured and he asked that an arrest be made but there was no action.

The old phaeton in which the honeymoon was begun, decorated with many colored streamers and palms, was pulled to the dock by members of the bridal party.

Mr. Rockefeller is a son of Mrs. William G. Rockefeller of New York. It was while he was on his way to Europe and the Olympic games last year as a member of the Yale crew that he met Miss Carnegie.

Community Circle Held Meeting

Kingdom—About 60 of the members of the Community Circle met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Floto. The usual scramble supper was the order of the evening after which the entertainment took the form of a "Stuntfest." Each one present was supposed to perform some stunt. The biggest of these was a mock wedding in which about ten of the male persons participated—bridegroom, bridesmaids, flower-girls, ring bearers and the wedding march played by Miss Ora Floto. George McWetley performed the marriage ceremony. The bride's veil, (some of Mrs. Floto's bed room curtains) was very much admired. The ring was beautiful and everything passed off as merrily as the marriage bell. During the evening John Morris, Clifford Floto and Miss Ora Floto furnished music. Clifford Floto sang a solo. Morris Sanford gave two readings. Douglas Floto recited. Henry Hintz, John Bachman, Mrs. Leonard Stevens, Mrs. Henry Hintz and Biescke each added to the

BATTLE OF LONG AND SHORT SKIRTS STILL ON—

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, April 16.—The battle of the long and short skirts is still going on. The 1925 spring offensive in this struggle, which has been in progress for the last two years, shows however, that the long skirts have effected a slight retreat.

Arbitration was attempted but the referees—the dressmakers—have ruled that it is impossible to negotiate. Inasmuch as the short skirt, while an adornment to some women, especially those of slender figure, tends to make others look ridiculous.

Reasonably short skirts ending about half way between the knee and ankle, and of moderate width have been the rule thus far this spring.

Women Mooseheart Legion in Meeting

The Women of Mooseheart Legion, Dixon Chapter No. 223, held their regular meeting in Moose hall Tuesday evening, with a good attendance of officers and members. A bazaar will be held in Moose hall starting Wednesday evening, April 15, 16, 17 and 18. It is hoped the bazaar will be well attended. There will be a scramble supper, April 23rd, at Moose hall, to which all the Moose and their families and all Legionnaires are invited. After the business a social hour was enjoyed. The hostesses, Mrs. Martha Witzleb, Mrs. Otto Witzleb and Mrs. Ellen Groth served dainty refreshments in the dining room. The chapter will meet again April 25th.

Lee Co. War Mothers Met on Tuesday

The Lee County Chapter of War Mothers, No. 13, met at the home of Mrs. J. P. McIntyre Tuesday afternoon, with fourteen members present.

The meeting was called to order by War Mother Strub, followed by the singing of "America." Chaplain Moore led in the repeating of the Lord's prayer. Recording Secretary Clea Bunnell gave the report of the previous meeting held at the home of Mrs. Anna Moore, which was accepted as read. The treasurer's report was also read and accepted. Mrs. Elliott gave a report on the food sale held at Ware's store, April 11th, the sale being most successful. The Mountain Memorial Home for War Mothers which is being built at Denver, Colo., for the benefit of those who visit the boys in the two sanitariums near that city, also for the Home of the Aged War Mothers, were discussed pro and con and it was decided to buy ten shares. An invitation was read from the overseas veterans to attend a special service to be held at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, April 26th, which was accepted, and all mothers of the World War boys are asked to meet with the War Mothers at that time and all members who were not present at the meeting are requested to take notice as the organization will attend in a body. The State Convention is to be held the 16th and 17th of April. Instructions were given to the delegates at this time, the delegates being Mrs. Clea Bunnell and Mrs. E. L. Kling.

The organization is glad to have with them again, Mrs. Kling as she was the first president of the War Mothers of Dixon and vicinity, in the dark days of '17 and '18. Mrs. Ruth Osbough also took out application papers at this meeting.

An invitation is extended to all mothers whose boys served in the World War, to attend any of these meetings.

After the penny drill and singing, "Blest be the Tie that Binds," the meeting closed to meet with Mrs. Viola Strub, April 24.

Pretty Wedding Solemnized Yesterday

A pretty wedding of the springtime was solemnized yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Catholic church, with Reverend Father Michael Foley officiating at the service. At this time Joseph W. Goliwas of Minonk, Ill., and Miss Mary Fane were united in marriage. Leo Fane attended the bridegroom as best man and Miss Helen Goliwas was the maid of honor to the bride.

The bride wore a most becoming ensemble suit in old rose, with hat and gloves in a harmonizing brick shade. Her flowers were pink and white roses.

After the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride to the immediate relatives. Here the decorations were in pink and white roses and carnations, artistically combined.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Fane of this city and is a charming and highly esteemed young woman whose many friends join in congratulating the young bridegroom, Mr. Goliwas, who is a young man of high character, with a splendid position with the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. All join in wishing the young people every happiness.

After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Goliwas will be at home with the bride's mother, 1111 Chestnut avenue.

Holy Trinity Church in New York Totally Burned

New York, April 15.—Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church was destroyed by fire in an hour this morning at an estimated damage of a half million dollars. Flames roared to a height of 200 feet. Clothing of persons 100 feet distant was scorched.

Members of four engine companies who were in the church when the roof began to collapse, rushed to shelter, under pillars in the west side of the building while tons of slate and great flaming beams toppled down. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained.

The building was 38 years old. Several great stained glass windows said to be valuable art treasures, were destroyed as was a new $35,000 pipe organ.

DEMOCRATIC HOPES.

Democrats are trying to pull themselves together for the campaign of 1926. Indications thus far are that if they get as close together as they did in the Madison square garden in 1924 the results will be substantially the same.

As long as they devote themselves to criticism of republicans, they are able to bring about some semblance of harmony, but when one democratic head is seen to rise above the crowd, it is the signal for gore.

Some of the eastern democrats, leading the way, suggested that a conference of leaders be called by Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, assistant secretary of the navy under the administration of President Wilson.

Immediately it was recalled that Roosevelt nominated Al Smith in the New York convention. Then the Bryans, William and Charles, emerged from the Florida palms and made their pronouncements. They chose Washington as the forum.

"I can see no plan or progress which will give the democratic party the support of a majority of the votes in the eastern states without setting up a party which could not, by the very nature of things, represent the great democratic masses of the west and south," said Charles W. Bryan, late vice presidential nominee.

He speaks for the farmers as if he and not Coolidge had received their votes. He says:

"You might say that there are no political parties in the west, and I have found that the people of the southern states are in full accord with the views of the people of the middle-west. Whenever the south and west get together politically, as they are learning to get together on agricultural lines, through co-operative marketing and the scientific development of their lands, together they will be able to elect a president and a congress in accord with their general views."

Thus far he goes with the new thought, or old thought revamped, then he lapses into the old strain:

"The people of the west and the south want the repeal of the republican high tariff which has increased the cost of living $4,000,000 a year as compared with the democratic tariff for revenue only."

Mr. Bryan says the people of the west want the federal reserve law administered as it was during the democratic administration, forgetting, perhaps, whose federal reserve board it was that ordered the deflation that the west criticized so severely, and to which it laid the difficulties of the farmers.

The Baltimore Sun, a democratic newspaper, comments upon the Bryan interview as follows:

"It needs but a glance at the election returns to convince any democrat that the Bryans can deliver mighty little in the west. If the south has any hankering after such an alliance, it would be well to let it know long in advance what democrats elsewhere think of it."

Whether to the advantage or disadvantage, it is characteristic of the Bryans to analyze the returns of the next election instead of those of the last election, so the Sun's remarks will be heeded little in Nebraska and Florida.

DISTRIBUTING IMMIGRANTS.

The league of nations is taking a hand in the immigration game, through its international labor bureau. A commission has sailed for South America to find homes for 300,000 Russian and Armenian refugees who have been drifting aimlessly around Europe, where they can not be supported and are not wanted.

There is room and opportunity for those refugees in the new world, the commissioners think. So they will visit Brazil, Argentina, Peru and Bolivia, on government invitation, to arrange for shipment of the new colonists, who are nearly all farmers.

There is room for many times that number, no doubt, in the broad areas of North and South America which have not received so much of the Old world's surplus population as the United States. It is legitimate and useful activity for the league to engage in, as long as its work is carried on with the consent and co-operation of the countries concerned.

PIPE OF PEACE.

The modern version of the pipe of peace is not an Indian calumet but an understanding, "upside down" affair.

Vice President Dawes, after antagonizing most of the members of the Senate, is now creating a friendlier feeling among the outraged solons by distributing copies of the strangely-modeled pipe he has made famous.

Since inauguration day he has given away eight. Senator Overman, who does not smoke, was presented with one with the following speech:

"I like you and will give vent to my impulse for you by presenting to you a pipe."

If this keeps on there doubtless will be another senatorial investigation into alleged bribery or proselyting.

BASEBALL.

You have seen this editorial before. But it's worth repeating every year just before the baseball season opens.

Eighteen men run about a field. A hundred—ten thousand sit and watch. How much better it would be if only 18 men sat in the bleachers and the thousands played!

TAKES A LAWYER TO DEFINE FOREIGNER

San Francisco is greeting the Grand Fleet of the American navy. San there will be the maneuvers off Hawaii, which Japanese jingoes view with jealous eye, and then the fleet goes on a friendly visit to Australia, where the Antipodians promise to outdo even America in the warmth of their welcome.

To them, that fleet is scarcely foreign. They may feel closer to Britain, in a certain traditional sentiment, but they are closer to America in interests and in similarity of experience and problems.

The looser the political bonds of

"Please give me a pie. I'm hungry. I'd like to taste your ware," said Simon.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Whizz had no idea that the magic snuff had been spilled and that dreadful things were happening in Daddy Gander Town.

But one thing they did know about. It was about Simple Simon and the Pieman's pies.

In the first place, the Muffin Man never could bear the Pieman. He called him a peddler and cheap-skate and everything that he could think of.

"How can he sell pies for a penny?" said the Muffin Man, "when I can scarcely make a decent living by selling them for ten cents apiece. I'll bet you his apple pies are made of dried apples with the skins on and the cores in, and his raisin pies are made of about two raisins and the rest flour and water—to thicken them up. And I'd hate to think of what his custard pies are made of. I'll bet you anything they never saw the inside of an egg shell."

That was the way the Muffin Man talked and when he heard the Pieman coming down the street calling, "Pies a penny—Pies a penny," he got so excited that he couldn't count a straight dozen. He had been known to count out thirteen doughnuts time and again when he heard the Pieman's cry. In time thirteen began to be known as the baker's dozen.

The day that the magic snuff got spilled, Simple Simon had stopped the Pieman right in front of the Muffin Man's shop.

"Please give me a pie. I'm hungry. I'd like to taste your ware," said Simon.

The Pieman was in a hurry because it was Fair Day and that was where he was going.

"I'll sell you one for a penny," said the Pieman.

The British Empire get, the less contrast there is between the relation of he Dominions within the Empire and their bond of sympathy with the remainder of the English-speaking world, and the less embarrassment there is to America in reciprocating that sentiment.

When an Australian regards an Englishman as half foreign, and an American regards a Canadian as only half foreign, it takes a lawyer to define the difference.

"Hebephrenic dementia praecox" is what one expert says is the matter with Dorothy Ellingson, the San Francisco girl who shot her mother because she objected to all-night boozing parties.

Translating this formidable Greek and Latin into every day English, all it means is, "the sort of craziness you get when you are young." The chief symptoms in this case were that the girl had been shamelessly indecent in life, killed her mother ruthlessly, and was not sorry for it.

That is, in the language of that forgotten age, when things were right or wrong, she was disreputable.

heartless and conscienceless. Translated these things into Greek and they become, instead of moral condemnations, learned pathological diagnoses.

ETHICAL AGE GIVES WAY TO SCIENTIFIC AGE

The ethical age has given way to the scientific. Sin is a disease and crime is its manifestation. Let us erect hospitals, where wickedness can be treated by diet and hydro-therapeutics.

A little later, when we understand better the functions of the endocrine glands, we may have a separate serum for each of the Ten Commandments. The hypodermic needle will supersede the Thunders of Sinai.

The strange thing is that not specialists could be found to testify to these things, but that public sentiment should seem to agree with them.

THOU SHALT NOT STILL HAS ITS PENALTIES

As recently as the Leopold-Loeb trial, the theories of the scientists clashed with the rude moral indignation of the people. Now, less than a year later, the people are apparently with the psychologists. There is no cry that "hanging is too good for her." There is even revolt against subjecting a girl who brutally murdered her mother to the ordeal of being tried for it.

Highly or wrongly, we are taking seriously what we recently derided. We have measured stupidity, dissected lachrymose, psychoanalyzed sin, diagnosed crime, and reduced virtue to a satisfied equation. Life is a laboratory, and we are its reagents.

It is an interesting phase, and doubtless not without its usefulness, but may we be old-fashioned enough to predict that the Ten Commandments will not be entirely repealed, and to suggest that "thou shalt not" still has its penalties?

Senate Passes Bill to Create New Departments

Springfield, Ill., April 15—The Senate today passed house bill 303 which provides for two new state departments and sent it to the governor for his signature. It would add a department of purchases and construction, and a department of conservation, thereby making the first amendment to the Lowden administrative code.

MURDERER OF 26 GUILLOTINED IN HANOVER, GERMANY

Confessed Crimes Just Before His Head Was Severed By Blade.

Hanover, Germany, April 15—"I am guilty, gentlemen, but hard though it may be, I want to die as a man."

So saying, Fritz Haarmann, Hanover butcher, convicted of the murder of 26 boys and men, stepped to the guillotine today and a moment later his head was severed. He was pale and nervous, but he maintained his bravado.

In accordance with German law, twelve highly respected citizens were chosen as official witnesses. Dressed in high silk hats and black Prince Albert coats, they assembled before the guillotine, which was hidden from their view by a curtain.

Judges Confirm Decree.

The guillotine had been erected in a secluded spot of the prison grounds. Next to it stood an altar with a crucifix. The prosecuting attorney, stepping before the altar dressed in his official judicial robe, read the sentence and the court opinion again to the assembled panel of judges who likewise wore their official robes, and had them once more confirm the sentence.

When this was done, Haarmann, garbed in a grey prison uniform and handcuffed, was brought from his cell. When he faced the judges and witnesses he nervously changed from one leg to the other and blinked incessantly but otherwise showed no emotion.

But as the death bell sounded he pulled himself together, and in a few unemotional words acknowledged himself guilty and ready to have the sentence executed, adding that he felt sorry for his actions. A few minutes later the blade was dropped.

Announcing Our New Ten-Pay-Plan of Selling Society Brand Clothes at Ten Payments Instead of One

AN extraordinary service inaugurated by us for the convenience of the vast number of responsible men in this community who are accustomed to purchasing homes, automobiles, radios, insurance, investment securities on the deferred payment plan. The only difference in our new plan and those used in buying homes, automobiles, etc., is that we do not charge interest, brokerage or service charge, but have absolutely one price for the cash, regular charge, or the ten-pay plan.

The ten payment plan puts the finest clothing within the reach of men who ordinarily find it inconvenient to make a single payment of $40 to $65 at one time.

In anticipation of the response that this unusual opportunity offers, we have prepared the largest selection of Society Brand Clothes that this store has ever shown. Among the new fabrics featured for spring in the smartest models are the Sandtones, Piping Rocks, Azure Blues, Broadmoors.

Make your selection of any Society Brand Suit in our stock. Pay first installment of regular selling price and the balance in ten weekly payments.

This service is inaugurated by us for the convenience of the scores of responsible men in this community who prefer to pay periodically or who find it inconvenient to pay the entire purchase price of a suit at one time.

We want to emphasize that when you purchase on this plan there is absolutely no deviation in the regular selling price. Our charge prices are exactly the same as our cash prices

A Word To Our Old Customers

We want you our regular cash and charge customers to understand that this new plan of selling does not affect the handling of your accounts in the usual way. There will be no change whatever in the usual method of handling your business.

ZBYSCZKO REGAINS WRESTLING TITLE BY BEATING MUNN

Veteran Easily Masters His Younger and Bigger Rival.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Philadelphia, Pa., April 16.—Stan-lius Zbyszko, 38 year old veteran, again rules the world as champion of wrestlers.

He regained the title he lost several years ago by conquering Wayne (Big) Munn last night in two straight falls and in less than 14 minutes of actual wrestling. A cleverly executed forearm hold earned the first fall for the veteran, who scored the second fall with a forearm and a hammer lock.
Zbyszko exhibited the same mat prowess against his more youthful opponent that brought him the championship years ago and clearly demonstrated that Munn's great strength was no match for the science of the master grappler.

Reaching only to the shoulders of the giant wrestler and weighing about 50 pounds less, Zbyszko wriggled away every time Munn tried to obtain his favorite crotch hold and easily broke away when he attempted a flu jitsu.

Then, watching his opportunity,
Zbyszko gained a body hold, lifted his opponent high in the air and hurled him to the floor, pinning his shoulder to the mat a few seconds later. After the intermission he repeated the performance and soon had Munn on his back in the grip that restored to him the heavyweight crown.

After the bout club physicians who examined Munn said he was suffering from tonsillitis and that he had fainted during the intermission between the first and second falls. The doctors said he had no fever when they examined him before the match.

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.
You may have a good appetite
if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S.
purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong,
cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters and the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy!
Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically rundown condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells—the spark that rejuvenates your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.
Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

Fashionable Footwear

Time was when all that ornately trimmed shoes did was to decorate the foot; they did not decorate it. That was because shoes and hose were not in unison as the accompaniment seconds and stresses the melody. For years shoes were, both literally and figuratively, looked down upon as an accessory of dress that one put on for conventionality and utility, rather than for style and character. Most of us owned few pairs of shoes and gave them an astounding amount of wear, re-heeling and re-soling them as long as the leather hung together. Now, it is recognized by all well-dressed men that every particular occasion has its proper shoe and that comfort and cleanliness demand a daily change of footwear. Moreover, shoes are no longer selected as an article of wear which has no relation to the rest of one's clothes.
They have become a unit in the theme of dress which must be harmonized with the ensemble just like hats, gloves, shirts and cravats.

One tendency in men's shoes is to make them lighter in weight.
The old brogue last has been greatly modified. Colors like medium shades of tan are well regarded. Black, long eclipsed by tan, is by way of reviving in favor. The reason for this is that black harmonizes or contrasts with any color of suit, whereas tan is more difficult to match. A heavy-weight brogued shoe does not look smart with light-weight Spring or Summer clothes. It is too thick and clumsy to befit the suit.

Sporting shoes, of course, are deeply influenced by the worldwide vogue of golf. Rubber soles predominate. Buckskin leather with tan or black trimmings, as portrayed in the accompanying sketch together with clocked white wool hose, is much sought. The all-white buckskin, though still to be met, is usually preferred by older men. Golf shoes as worn by the man who really plays golf, instead of merely at it, are mostly of tan grained leather with plain soft toes. Crepe rubber soles, owing to their lightness, flexibility and retention of grip, are an admirable type for the seasoned sportsman. The regular sole with rubber studs is again in some favor.

One observes a marked difference between the shoes the golfer wears around the club and those he wears upon the course. The shoes he plays in are much plainer and more practical, be they crepe-rubber soled or stud-soled or leather-soled, water-proofed and spiked. The cardinal consideration for the links is to have shoes that do not slip.

F. X. NEWCOMER COMPANY

"The Service Agency"

Glenn Curtiss, famous for the prominent part he has played in the development of aviation in this country, is the man behind one of the most unique sports courses in existence—a nine-hole archery lay-out.

It is located in Miami, Fla., the city noted for its unusual sports features. The course was built following an argument between a group of archers and a bunch of golfing devotees.

The game is played somewhat on the order of golf except that bows and arrows are used instead of golf clubs and balls. Each shot of the bow and arrow counts a stroke, and in place of holing out, as in golf, the arrow must be shot into a bag about the size of a golf hole.

So much interest has been displayed in the game that an exclusive archery club has been formed with Curtiss as the leading spirit. Matches are being played daily by a host of archery enthusiasts, and the pastime is gaining more followers rapidly.

THE Peacock is a stately bird That lives down on the farm. It struts around real proudly, but Will never do you harm. The beauty of its coloring Is what it's proud about. We see a maze of tints when'er It spreads its feathers out.

"Proper Food and Exercise," by ARTHUR A. McGOVERN
Former physical director, Cornell Medical College

Do you get enough exercise to tone up your system?

MANY people answer "yes" to this question, but an expert Physical Trainer studying their case would immediately answer "no."

The person who makes the mistake of indulging in a day of strenuous activity after a week of sedentary routine would doubtless think he was getting enough exercise of the proper kind.

For example, many golfers who find it possible to indulge in this game but once a week, think nothing of playing thirty-six holes without rest. They do not consider the fact that this unusual and excessive exercise does a great amount of harm.

The housewife whose daily tasks mean using one set of muscles over and over again, no doubt thinks she has too much exercise because she so frequently feels "all in."

A great many people make the mistake of believing that they are getting plenty of exercise when they merely walk a few blocks every day.

Walking is excellent as a part of a system of physical training. However, it is not only useless but harmful if we bolt our breakfast hurriedly and dash out of the house in order to walk rapidly for several miles. By so doing we interfere seriously with our digestive process. Fifteen minutes of relaxation should be enjoyed after every meal.

On the other hand, a brisk walk, followed by a shower and a good rub-down, previous to the morning meal is of great value.

If we saunter leisurely along a city street, pausing now and then to gaze into shop windows, we are exerting our muscles too slowly to be of any real benefit and we are, in all probability, breathing impure air, laden with the fumes from automobile exhausts.

The chief benefit of exercising the muscles is in contracting them and releasing them. By so doing, the fresh blood flows into the muscles, building them up and developing them, and the impure blood is forced out.

In this way, the tissues that are undernourished are developed and such parts of the body as are overdeveloped are reduced to normal.

BREAKFAST: An ounce of bran cereal and cream. Very little sugar. Bran muffins or toast made from graham, whole wheat or rye bread. Coffee substitute preferred.

LUNCHEON: A vegetable luncheon or a vegetable salad made from any of the following: Lettuce, string beans, cauliflower, cucumbers, tomatoes, turnips, cabbage, water cress, spinach, carrots, celery, brussels sprouts. Fresh cheese, dark bread, buttermilk or some fermented milk.

DINNER: Any vegetable soup, tomato, pea, lentil, corn, celery; one broiled lamb chop, a piece of chicken or a small piece of roast beef with at least two vegetables. Dark bread, unsweetened cocoa, and stewed fruit for dessert.

Mr. McGovern, whose address is 5 W. 66th St., New York City, will answer your questions. Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for your reply.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

FOR a second Gloria thought she was going to faint.

The bright room whirled around her. She caught hold of a lamp of Dick's coat to steady herself. She tried to smile.

"What did you say, dear?" she gasped. "There's such a racket in the room that I can scarcely hear your voice."

Dick did not return her smile. His face was stern.

"I said," he repeated slowly. "I said that the man I saw leaving this house the other afternoon is standing over there by the door."

How did you ever happen to ask him here tonight? . . . a man who had sold us a few lampshades? Or is he a friend of yours?

Every word Dick said fell on Gloria's heart like a hammer blow. . . . Still she could find no answer.

She had had no idea that Dick had seen Wayburn's face when he had met him leaving the house the other day.

How could she ever explain to Dick that she had lied to him when she had said that Wayburn was a decorator calling about the lampshades?

How could she tell him the truth? That Wayburn really was an actor, who had had no business to be in Dick's house that day making love to Dick's wife?

Well, she just couldn't! And that was all there was to it!

No. The only way out was to bluff through. . . . To tell another lie to cover the first one! . . . And that ought to be easy enough.

SO Gloria threw back her shining head and laughed.

"You're seeing things, Dicky!" she cried. "You're ill. . . . That isn't my lampshade man or anybody like him! That's Stanley Wayburn, who played here in stock all last winter. Don't you remember him?"

"You're cuckoo!" just plain cuckoo! . . . I'll have to cut off your drinks tonight, I can see that!"

She left him. Dizzily she threaded her way through the dancers to Wayburn's side.

The air in the hot rooms was heavy with the smell of perfumes and alcohol. It made her giddy.

"How nice of you to come!" Gloria smiled up at Wayburn. He took her hand. The hard pressure of his palm thrilled her, somehow. . . . She felt as if he had taken her in his arms.

The pearls on Gloria's breast stirred as she sighed deeply.

"Come along," she said. "I want you to meet my husband."

I can see from Syd's letter that he thinks I am too hard. He thinks I make too much of strict justice and not enough of charity.

Perhaps I take it all too seriously. Jack is evidently honest in his belief that he loves me devotedly and he is very unhappy just at present.

He tells Syd that I seem happy—that only means that women are always actresses; they never tell to anyone just what they think or feel. From the cradle to the grave they are always "seeming" somebody or something else, while a man can always be and usually is himself.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

"Whatever you do, don't pay any attention to me, tonight," she said.

Together they went back to Dick's corner. He was in a brown study.

"Dick," Gloria said, "I want you to know an old friend of mine, Stanley Wayburn. You've heard of him, of course. . . . Some day Stan is going to back the Barrymore brothers right off the boards! . . . Come out into the dining room, Stan, and I'll give you a drink while nobody's looking."

Dick watched them as they went. Gloria could feel his angry eyes upon her.

THERE was a sick, shaky feeling at the pit of her stomach.

She was terribly afraid that Dick knew now that she had lied.

She was sure that he suspected that Wayburn and the "lampshade man" were one and the same person!

Suddenly something she had heard her grandmother say long ago flashed into her mind. . . . "You can look up from a thief, but you can't look up from a liar!"

On one end of the long table in the dining room was a huge punch bowl filled with iced fruit-juice and gin.

Gloria filled two glasses with the bitter-sweet stuff.

"I call this my Indian Guide cocktail," he said. "I'll lead you astray, Stan!" she cried recklessly. And drained her glass.

Then Gloria went on in a low tone. "Whatever you do, don't pay any attention to me, tonight!" she said.

Stan raised his eyebrows. "Why not?" he asked.

"Because I have the most jealous husband in the world," Gloria answered. "And he saw you leaving the house the other day. . . . Or thinks he did. Here comes Myra Gail! Give her a thrill. . . . She's not having a very gay time."

Mrs. Gail trailed into the room. Behind one hand she hid a tiny yawn.

"Myra, dear," Gloria said loudly, "here's a nice little friend for you! Mr. Wayburn's just been telling me that he's dying to meet you."

She was filling three more cocktail glasses as she spoke. She emptied her own, and left Wayburn with Myra.

Gloria's head was going around and around. There was a singing in her ears. She knew she had had too much to drink. Much too much!

Gloria started up the stairs. She wanted just one thing in the world . . . to lie down on her own bed and go to sleep!

But the stairs seemed to be made of rubber. She couldn't stand on them.

Suddenly a plate of sandwiches appeared before her.

"Here, eat a blotter!" came Bill Hough's voice. "I'll soak up some of the gin you've been drinking."

Better sober up, old girl, before Dick sees you!"

But Gloria pushed Bill and his sandwiches away.

She swayed into the living room. The jazz band was playing "Oh, Peter!" But nobody was dancing.

On the davenport May Seymour and Jim Carewe were sitting close together, blowing smoke rings at the ceiling.

Gloria crossed the room to them. "Why don't you get up and dance?" she asked. "Band's playing 'O, Peter!' Mos' wonderful music in the world. . . ."

May Seymour took one look at Gloria's white face and starchy eyes. "Sit down, here!" she ordered.

"Gloria, you've had too much to drink. Make her sit down, Jim!"

But Gloria drifted away. The room seemed to be filled with golden fog. . . . She was very warm and dizzy. She reeled a little.

"I may have had too much to drink, but I'm still going good!" she said to the world at large.

"You certainly are!" It was Dick's voice. He and Lola Hough seemed to swim before her eyes.

"Here, take her out into the kitchen, Lola," Gloria heard Dick say. "And tell Maggie to give her some strong black coffee. See if you can sober her up. . . . If Myra Gail and the rest of the women see her like this they'll tell it all over town tomorrow!"

THE next thing Gloria knew she was sitting in her own white kitchen. She didn't know how she had got there.

Through the golden fog she could see Maggie cutting sandwiches.

"I'd always heard that women smoked and drank," Gloria heard Maggie say to Mrs. Hough. "but I never expected to see it! . . . Not in Mr. Dick's house, anyway!"

She cut bread viciously.

"Now, Maggie, what's a little drink among friends?" Gloria asked cheerfully. She was feeling very happy. The dizzy feeling had left her.

"It's not so much the drink itself. . . . It's the way drink makes folks act. . . . especially women folks!" snorted Maggie. "Look at yourself, right this minute, Mrs. Gregory, ma'am! . . . and that Mrs. Gail in the dining room! Her that's so cold, butter wouldn't melt in her mouth!"

"Well, go and take a look at her now, if you think she's so prim!" Gloria rose to her feet. Lola caught her by the bare arm.

"No, no, dear!" she pleaded. "Don't go now. Wait until you've had your coffee!"

But Gloria had torn herself away. Uncertainly she pushed open the door between the pantry and the dining room.

Someone had turned out the lights. The dining room was in half darkness.

And standing in the breakfast alcove were Myra Gail and Stan Way-burn, locked in one another's arms! Gloria gave a little moon. She put out one hand and turned on the wall lights.

Instantly the pair in the alcove sprang apart. Gloria laughed bitterly.

"Well, Stan, you certainly are a fast worker!" she said. "You'll pardon me for spoiling your clubby little party, won't you? . . . You see, I'm afraid to go 'round in the dark."

Gloria walked shakily to the buffet. She drank another cocktail.

She wanted to cry. But instead she turned out the lights again and walked out of the room.

SHE'd show Stanley Wayburn that she wasn't jealous!

She'd show him that it meant nothing to her how many times he might kiss Myra Gail . . . or any other woman!

What was he in her life, anyway?

Nothing but a third-rate actor who happened to look like Valentino!

And yet, somehow, the sight of him kissing Myra Gail had spoiled Gloria's whole evening. . . .

Someone laid a hand on her bare arm. Gloria turned.

"Look here, Russet!" he said, "what are you so sore about? You told me to give your sad-eyed friend a thrill, and I did my best to give her one."

"I'll say you did!" Gloria answered. "And anyway, I'm not sore about it. I dare say you've kissed hundreds of women. . . . Why should I worry about your kissing Myra Gail?"

She went back into the kitchen. "I'll have that coffee now, please," she said to Maggie. "and then let's serve supper. I'm sick and tired of this party, anyway!"

She drank her coffee. May and Jim came in. Jim was carrying two cocktail glasses.

May drank the contents of both, daintily.

"I drink to Married Life!" she cried. "Serappy days!"

May was a kitchen drinker. Dr. John, her husband, had forbidden her to drink. So May had to have her cocktails when he was out of sight.

"I wish to goodness some kind patient would send in a hurry call for my hubby," May said now. "It cramps my style terribly to have him around at parties."

He's so afraid I might happen to have a good time! Go, hunt him up, Gloria, and dance with him, while I have my little drink in peace!"

Gloria went. She found Dr. John talking about Lola's babies.

"You haven't danced with me all evening, Dr. Johnny," Gloria pouted. Instantly the doctor was on his feet. He put his arms around Gloria, but she slipped out of them.

She crumpled up in a heap on the floor!

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington—Nobody would have considered the north pole worth quarreling over a few years ago. Today the question, "To whom shall the pole belong?" is internationally so delicate that several big governments hate to have it discussed, lest trouble be bred.

The idea is that the pole is the shortest way of getting from almost anywhere to almost anywhere else.

In the days when it could be visited only by dog-power, on a diet of tallow candles, at terrific cost in hardship and the expenditure of months of appallingly hard work, the route's shortness was infinitely more than offset by its difficulties.

Now, however, that the traveler can shut himself inside a nice warm cabin and fly across it at 60 to 100 miles an hour, shortness counts.

So to whom does the north pole belong? Still more to the point, if there's any land in the pole's vicinity, which would make a good way station on a trip across, to whom does that land belong?

Answer: It belongs to whomever finds it first and stakes it out. Hence the MacMillan expedition, which the United States navy is fitting out. Hence also the Norwegian expedition under Amundsen, which already is on its way. England, Japan and Russia are reported making similar preparations.

Navy officers like to tell about the MacMillan plans up to the point where the visitor begins to ask about annexation of the pole. Then, "Shush on that talk," they cry. "It's the very thing we don't want to remind others of."

The proposed way station at the Tells you there is danger ahead. A healthy bladder does not act at night.

Libiated Buchu cleanses the bladder as Epson Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. ## TWICE IN THIS WOMAN'S LIFE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her from Sickness to Health

Ellensburg, Washington—"When I was first coming into womanhood I suffered terribly every month. My mother did everything she could think of, so she took me to several doctors and they only helped me a little. Mother was talking to another lady about my condition and she told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I will answer any letter that comes to me to answer about what your medicine has done for me."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mother got me six bottles and at the end of the first month I was much better, so I kept on taking it until I had no more pains. When I got married and had my first child I was in terrible pain so that it was impossible for me to do my housework. I thought of how the Vegetable Compound had been of so much benefit to me when I was a girl, so I went to Perier's Drug-Store and got six bottles. It sure did help me and I still take it. I am a well woman today and I can't say too much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I will answer any letter that comes to me to answer about what your medicine has done for me."

pole may develop into a mighty interesting place. Traveling, say from Chicago to Calcutta by the Polar route, tourists naturally will want to stop off for a look at the earth's hub, just at trans pause for awhile at Niagara to let the passengers see the falls. This raises the question: Who will get the coffee and hot dog concession? And if the United States annexes the pole, will it be dry?

Last winter was a test winter. Was it unusually warm, unusually cold or just middling? Inasmuch as it's past, it seems as if we ought to know. Nevertheless, experts disagree.

Herbert Janvin Browne, unofficial but widely known weather forecaster, said he could make an accurate prediction for at least a whole season. The government weather department said he couldn't. "All right," rejoined Browne six months ago. "I'll make a forecast for the winter of 1924-25 and leave it to the thermometer to show whether I'm right or wrong. It will be exceptionally cold."

Now the winter of 1924-25 is over. "It was exceptionally cold," triumphs Browne. "It was exceptionally mild," insists the weather department. The secret is this: Browne took his temperatures from the vicinity of the North Cape. The weather department relied on readings from the neighborhood of Palm Beach.

It's one thing to talk about discharging superfluous government employees; something entirely different to do it. Public Printer George H. Carter tried it and it nearly cost him his job—may do so yet. Now an investigation has been started to determine how many of the so-called independent bureaus—independent of any department—are worth having. The regular department could take over their work. It would save money and cut red tape. But, oh, what a roar is going up!
